This Company is formed to extend to fire risks the grand principle of Mutual Insurance, which has been profitable in other parts of the world, and in Australia has been applied to Life Assurance with results of such remarkable success.

The Annual Profits will be appropriated—

To payment of interest at 8 per cent. on the paid-up capital. Such a sum as the Directors may determine to form and maintain a Reserve Fund.

After which the whole of the surplus profits will be divided between the shareholders and insurers in equal shares.

The advantageous prospective benefits, in addition to the annual division of bonus, which may be estimated from experience at 20 to 25 per cent. of the premiums paid, will tend to secure a permanent and satisfactory body of customers to the office, all being mutually interested in the careful selection of the risks, while, to the original members, an absolute investment is given at 8 per cent. with large bonuses in addition.

Local committees of advice will be established at the principal business centres in each colony where business is carried on, and administration of affairs will be conducted by a board of directors in the metropolis of each of such colonies.

Over 30,000 shares are already applied for in the other colonies, and applications have been received for the greater portion of the issue for this colony. It is desired to distribute the remainder amongst those who will introduce their own Fire Insurance and influence other business to the Society.

Prospectuses and forms of application can be obtained at the offices, 183 and 185, Pitt-street, Sydney.

ALFRED CHANDLER, Secretary pro tem.

BLANCHE LASCELLES ..... Miss BEATRICE.

This YOUNG, BEAUTIFUL, and TALENTED AUSTRALIAN ACTRESS received a CORRECT OVATION on Saturday and Monday nights, for HER POWERFUL AND NATURAL rendering of the character.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.
SYDNEY MORNING HERALD.

"Without requiring to pourtray such an intensely emotional character as that of Lady Isabel or Leah, she was called on to depict a lady loving her husband with all the devotion of a woman, rendered jealous by falsehood, leading a secret which an oath obliged her to keep, and which rendered him so jealous as to cast her off, and yet triumphing in the end. In these varied delineations she achieved a most complete triumph. * * * * * * * It is a great deal to say, but it is true, that in some parts she resembled, in her realistic acting, her celebrated predecessor on the stage, Miss Cleveland. The part necessitates incidental singing, and Miss Beatrice in this also acquitted herself with unexpected success, and received quite an floral show."

EVENING NEWS.

"Miss Beatrice sustained the principal character, Blanche Lascelles, and it must at once at once be acknowledged that she achieved a signal success. Her acting is easy, natural, and graceful, and in addition, it is not at all wanting in vigour. Her elocution, too, is excellent. It will thus be seen that this young lady is highly gifted, and a promising career is certainly before her."

ECHO.

"The part of the heroine, Blanche Lascelles, was enacted by Miss Beatrice, a young lady who, on this occasion, made her first appearance before a Sydney audience. The part she had to sustain was a somewhat arduous one; but she proved herself equal to its requirements, and rendered the various emotions and feelings incidental to the character with great fidelity and success."

N.B.—This Drama obtained the Thousand Pounds Prize at the last presentation in NEW YORK, and for Good, Emotional, and Exciting Sensational Scenes, has proved itself the very best of modern constructions.

SYDNEY WOOL SALES.
JOHN BRIDGE,
WOOL BROKER, STOCK and STATION AGENT.
Wool Warehouses, Circular Quay, Sydney.
Sale Yards for Stock, Homebush and Sydney.

In tendering my sincerest thanks to my numerous friends all over the Australian colonies for their support and confidence so liberally extended to me during the last ten years, I hope, now that another season is commencing, and that I am better than ever prepared to do the fullest justice to any interests entrusted to me, that I shall still receive as full a share of support as SCRUPULOUS HONESTY, LOWEST CHARGES, and UNTIRING ATTENTION can deserve. THE EXTENT OF MY BUSINESS WILL NOW COMPARE CREDITABLY with that of ANY HOUSE IN NEW SOUTH WALES; and I have NOT had to RESORT TO, nor RELY UPON, MISREPRESENTATIONS.
I act as SELLING AGENT ONLY; am prepared to make immediate advances against wool or other produce for sale or shipment, and against the coming clip, on EASIER TERMS THAN ANY OTHER AGENT. Fullest information furnished by letter or telegram if desired.
In justice to this market, I beg to protest against the impression that wools realise more in Melbourne than in Sydney. A lie is sold to be as good as the truth if it gets twenty-four hours' start; and the Melbourne Agents have made the most of a BAD and NOW FAILING CAUSE. Very little reflection will show that on EVERY BALE of wool sent hence to Melbourne the COSTS ARE £1 MORE than if it were sold here; that all buyers are equally represented at both places; that buyers know better than pay 2d. to 4d. (or even ½d.) per lb. more in Melbourne than in Sydney, qualities being equal, and that if any such difference existed our Sydney buyers would soon turn it to good account by shipping to Melbourne. At request of many friends I have sold wool in MELBOURNE, but NEVER YET at a HIGHER price THAN WAS FIRST OFFERED IN SYDNEY.
SALES of wool held every WEDNESDAY, and oftener if desirable.
SALES of tallow, hides, sheepskins, leather, tin ore, maize, &c., &c., held weekly, and of live stock twice a week.
JOHN BRIDGE.

TO WOOLGROWERS.
MORT and CO. have the pleasure to announce that, to fully meet the expansion of the Wool Trade, arising from the increased means of transit to this port, they are extending arrangements for the expeditious disposal of wools consigned to their care, either for sale in this market or for shipment to their London House.
Their large warehouses, especially constructed for the purpose, afford facility for the display of wools to the best advantage, and every consignment, large or small, has separate and careful attention; and acting only as Selling Brokers, their interest is to secure for constituents the very best possible result.
As a rule, they advise selling in this market, but are always prepared to consult with growers as to the best course to adopt with their clips, and, in the event of shipment to London, make LIBERAL ADVANCES.
Ordinary sales by auction are held on WEDNESDAY in each week, and more frequently during the season, when found desirable.
The CHARGES on Wool sold in Sydney are VERY CONSIDERABLY UNDER THOSE MADE ELSEWHERE, the COMMISSION on amounts exceeding £50, being only ONE PER CENT., and the total charge for receiving, weighing, storage, and delivery to purchasers, only 2s 6d PER BALE.
In the event of shipment, their large CONSIGNMENTS enable them to command the MOST FAVOURABLE RATES FOR FREIGHT, and shipments on arrival in London have the benefit of the personal supervision of one of the Partners of the Firm.
INSURANCE is charged at the rate of 2s 6d per £100 on Sydney value, covering the produce whilst in warehouse from time of receipt to date of sale. Should any constituent wish his consignments protected against risk in transit, or while in shearing shed, he will please give instructions to that effect.

TO CONSIGNORS OF OTHER PRODUCE.
Regular Sales of TALLOW, HIDES, SHEEPSKINS, and LEATHER, are held weekly.

ADVANCES.
Liberal advances are made under lien on the growing Clip of Wool, and on Wool, Tallow, Hides, or other Station Produce consigned to them for sale or shipment.

The SALE of STATIONS and STOCK, at auction or by private contract, and all business connected with a Grazier's Agency, has prompt attention.
Any further information required will be furnished on application, and Way Bills forwarded as requested.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—MONDAY, AUGUST 19.

SITTINGS FOR CAUSES.

Banco Court.—(Before his Honor the CHIEF JUSTICE and a Jury of Four.)

SMITH V. THE MAYOR AND OTHERS.

Jury: Messrs. John M'Minn, Joseph Graham, George Crispo, sen., and John Falconer.

Mr. Pilcher, instructed by Mr. C. B. Pitt, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Butler, Q.C., and Mr. Darley, instructed by the City Solicitor, appeared for the defendants.

Thomas Smith sued the Mayor, Aldermen, &c., of the city for damages for injuries sustained by the plaintiff, who was a cabdriver, by running against a fence erected round an excavation made by the defendants, and a heap of earth and stones from the excavation, in Bourke-street—the fence and other obstructions not being protected with proper lights. The plaintiff incurred expense in obtaining medical and surgical attendance and assistance for himself, and in curing his horse, which was seriously injured, and in repairing his cab. £500 was claimed. The defendants pleaded not guilty, by statutes 14 Vic. No. 41, 17 Vic. No. 34, 20 Vic. No. 38, and 22 Vic. No. 12.

From the evidence it appeared that the plaintiff, who was a hansom cabdriver, was engaged on the morning of the 18th of June last in taking a fare from St. Vincent's Ball, held at the Exhibition Building. After calling at Woolloomooloo he was driving along Bourke-street, between Liverpool and Burton streets, when his cab ran against a heap of earth and stones cast up from an excavation in the street, and a fence erected around it. The morning was dark and windy, and only one glimmering lamp was visible on the furthest end of the fence. The plaintiff was stunned, and his cab and horse were upset and much injured. The horse, about four months before, had cost £26 10s., and the cab had not been long built, at a cost of £112 10s. With the assistance of some men living close by the scene of the accident the plaintiff was attended to, the horse and cab lifted up and removed. The plaintiff reported the accident to the police at the Darlinghurst station. The persons who assisted the plaintiff gave evidence that only one lamp on the fence round the excavation was alight, and that not burning brightly on the corner furtherest from that struck by the cab. On cross-examination, it appeared that between the hoarding and the kerbstone, 12 feet 6 inches had been left clear for the passage of carriages and other traffic.

For the defence, evidence was given that at the time of the accident two lights were burning brightly on the fence. A lamp-trimmer, in the defendants employ, at 10 p.m., saw three lights on the fence; again at 12.30; at 4.30 a.m. one of the lights had gone out, the other two were bright. The sergeant in charge of the Police Station, at Darlinghurst, and constable Ryan were of opinion that when the plaintiff reported the accident he was under the influence of drink—"he was noisy and abusing the police." Constable Ryan was sent to the scene of the accident, and found two lamps burning. In reply, Dr. Mackellar, who examined the plaintiff two days after the accident, found him cut about the head and suffering from a contusion in the back. The plaintiff's fare and those who assisted him all deposed that the plaintiff was perfectly sober. After counsels' addresses and his Honor's summing up, the jury, after retiring for half-an-hour, returned a verdict for the plaintiff with damages—£60.

BURROWS AND ANOTHER V. SEMPILL.

This was an undefended action of ejectment to recover possession of Gazzard's Hotel, in Pitt-street. The defendant not appearing, a verdict was returned for the plaintiffs, without proving their title, for whom Mr. M. H. Stephen and Mr. Irving, instructed by Mr. Ashdown, appeared.

LACKEY V. WILLBOW.

This was an undefended action of ejectment to recover possession of 200 acres of land, known as Woodville, near Parramatta; as the defendant did not appear the plaintiff, for whom Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. Bowden, of Parramatta, appeared, obtained a verdict.

On council stating that portion of the land was an orchard which was being ruined for want of attention, his Honor granted execution in twenty-four hours.

DEGOTARDI V. KEMSLEY.

For want of parties this case was struck out.

Jury Court.—(Before his Honor Sir WILLIAM MANNING and a Jury of Four.)

BAGNALL V. SAILLARD.

Jury: Messrs. J. C. Beare, R. Archbold, H. Burrows, and C. Cooper.

Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Mr. Oliver, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. Bull, appeared for the defendant.

William Bagnall sued Louis Richard Saillard for the balance of a sum due on a contract for building 2 cottages at Manly Beach. The contract price was to be £615, with £15 for some extras. The work had been completed together with some further extras to the value of , and £550 was paid. When the plaintiff applied for the balance the defendant replied that he was unable to pay, as he had not obtained the money from the building society. In answer to other applications the defendant refused to pay as he was not satisfied with the work.

The defendant pleaded a set-off. Portion of which was admitted.

After counsel had addressed the jury for the defence and in reply, the jury stated that they did not require any direction from his Honor, and returned a verdict for the plaintiff with £70 damages.

SEMPILL V. WILLIAMSON.

Jury: Messrs. M. G. Forrest, C. Cooper, G. Tait, and J. C. Beare.

Mr. Darley and Mr. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Bradley and Son, appeared for the plaintiff. The defendant had pleaded but did not appear.

Robert Hamilton Sempill, as the official assignee of the insolvent estate of John Logue, sued John Williamson to recover the value of certain wheat, bullocks, horses, a dray, and team, with their furniture and fittings transferred to him by the insolvent before and after the sequestration of his estate.

The cause of action was set forth in eight counts. £1000 was claimed. The defendant, in eleven pleas, denied that there had been any alienation; that the alienation had the effect of rendering John Logue insolvent, and the other averments in the declaration. The insolvency of John Logue was proved, and the goods claimed were traced to the possession of the defendant to the value of £340, for which sum a verdict was returned for the plaintiff.

His Honor granted speedy execution, as it appeared that the defendant was selling off his property.

CASHION V. GODWIN.

In this cause the jury were empannelled, and the Court rose.

JURORS FINED.—Messrs. Fritz Anderson, boarding-housekeeper, 5, Bligh-street; Walter Henderson, grocer, Darlinghurst Road, Balmain; and George Caird, merchant, Ocean-street, Woollahra, were each fined 40s. for not attending as jurors in the Jury Court. Messrs. John Frederick Mann, gentleman, Neutral Bay, St. Leonards; Thoman Donohue, publican, 104, Parramatta-street; and Robert Tooth, brewer, Darling Point, were each fined 40s. for not attending as jurors in the Banco Court.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.—MONDAY.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice FAUCETT.)

CHARGE OF MURDER.

Joseph Windeyer, alias Cooper, was arraigned on an indictment, charging him with the wilful murder of Emma Gilbert, at Sydney, on the 30th June last. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. The Attorney-General (Hon. Mr. Foster) and Mr. C. Stephen appeared for the Crown; and Mr. D. Buchanan, instructed by Messrs. Coonan and Ryan, defended the prisoner.

The evidence of the Crown did not materially differ from that adduced at the inquest held on the body of the deceased, and was to the following effect. The deceased woman lived with the prisoner as his mistress in a house at the corner of Little Hay and Sussex streets. On the morning of Sunday, the 30th June, he reported to the police that Emma Gilbert had been found dead in bed by him that morning. Sergeant Foley proceeded, with the prisoner and another young man, to the house referred to, and there saw the body of the deceased. She was lying undressed and outside the bed: her face was scratched and her lip swollen, and her person in other places bore marks of recent injuries; as it was known by the police that Windeyer and deceased had been quarrelling on the previous night, sergeant Foley arrested him on suspicion of having committed murder. An inquest was held and a verdict of wilful murder was returned. Dr. Egan, who made a post-mortem examination, deposed that he found, on opening the skull, a large clot of blood resting on the left hemisphere of the brain; the cause of death was extravasation of blood on the brain; that extravasation proceeded from the rupture of some of the vessels on the surface of the brain; the internal clot corresponded with the extravasation on the left side of the skull under the skull-cap, and appeared to him to have been caused by violence; it could have been produced by a blow on the head or possibly by falling on a stone; there were other injuries on the deceased's face and arms, none of which, however, were of a dangerous character, although they proved she had been subjected to violent usage. Louisa Gilbert, the sister of the deceased, who was 29 years of age, stated that the latter had lived for four years with the prisoner as his mistress; she had often seen him beat her with his hands, and on the evening of the 29th June she saw him with a whip in his hand, looking for the deceased; he said that if he found her he would kick her stomach in; about half-past 8 o'clock on that night the deceased came home drunk, and a quarrel ensued: the prisoner took deceased off the verandah, and, according to the evidence, threw her inside the door; she returned to the verandah, and was again forcibly put inside, prisoner kicking her with his bare foot on the head; in staggering along she fell and knocked the side of her head against a box that was in the passage, but after this she again returned to the verandah and more quarrelling took place; at about 11 o'clock some women and children outside the house heard groaning and a bumping sound as if deceased's head was being knocked against the ground; nothing more was seen of the woman until her death was reported to the police. In the cross-examination of the Crown witnesses it was elicited that the deceased was in the habit of drinking, and that she was very drunk on the night referred to. The usual relations between her and the prisoner were not, however, sufficiently bad to call for the interference of the neighbours. Constable Jacobson stated that at about half-past 9 o'clock on the night of the occurrence, hearing there had been a row, he went to prisoner's house and looked in through a broken pane of glass: prisoner and deceased were then sitting on the floor; he asked what was the matter, and the prisoner answered that the woman was drunk, and he was trying to get her to bed; the constable did not notice anything unusual in the appearance of the deceased. For the defence three witnesses were called, who swore that they saw the deceased very drunk in George-street at a quarter-past 8 o'clock on the Saturday night. She would have been taken in charge, but that one of the witnesses who knew her volunteered to bring her home. She was brought to within a few yards of her house by two youths named Gallagher and Erie, the former of whom went in for her husband; those youths swore that when bringing her home she was so helplessly drunk she could barely stand, and it required their united exertions to pull her along; shortly after they took charge of her she fell backwards, striking her head on the pavement. Another witness deposed that he had several times seen the woman intoxicated, and using very provocative language towards the prisoner. He had been acquainted with the parties for years; but, although she had thrown stones at the prisoner, he had never seen the latter raise his hand to strike her.

Mr. Buchanan, in addressing the jury, contended that the woman's death was caused by the falls which she had upon the pavement and the box, acting upon a brain highly inflamed by excessive use of alcohol.

His Honor carefully summed up the evidence.

The jury, after half an hour's deliberation, returned a verdict of manslaughter, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—MONDAY.

(Before the CHIEF COMMISSIONER.)

In the matter of Thomas Alfred Henderson, for the examination of witnesses, Mr. Knox appeared for the official assignee, and Mr. M'Laughlin for Charles Alfred Henderson, the son of the insolvent. Thomas Shell Jones gave evidence that he was clerk to Mr. Billyard, solicitor, and that he had prepared the transfer of the sale by the insolvent to his son, Charles Alfred Henderson, of the Redmore Estate; he thought he had suggested the sale; at the time he knew that the insolvent was indebted to Dunn, Cameron, and Co.; Felheim, Jacobs, and Co.; and the Bank of Australasia; Mr. Billyard gave the cheque for the purchase money, £600, to Mr. Charles Alfred Henderson; Mr. Billyard's costs were paid out of the cheque; these were costs incurred by the insolvent. The rest of this witness's evidence had reference to documents which were put in as exhibits. William W. Billyard was called and gave evidence of a formal character only. Charles Alfred Henderson, the son of the insolvent, deposed that he was employed at Prince, Ogg, and Co.'s, and that he had become the purchaser of the Redmore Estate from his father on the 10th of May last year; witness' father, Mr. Jones, and himself met together and arranged; his father told him he was indebted to Dunn, Cameron, and Co. to the amount of about £500, and he thought Mr. Jones suggested the sale; it was then agreed that he should purchase the equity of redemption for £600; that was about a week before the actual transfer took place; witness had not then £600 available, but he explained the position in which he was placed to Mr. Jones; did not give any other document than the real property mortgage; saw Mr. Jones afterwards, and asked him if the £600 could be obtained, and he said Mr. Billyard was willing to advance the money; witness paid the cheque into the Bank of New Zealand, to the credit of Thomas Alfred Henderson; it was a new account opened by that payment; at that time witness did not know of any other debts except that of Cameron, Dunn, and Co.'s.

In the matter of James Thorne, adjourned examination of witnesses. Postponed until Thursday.

In the matter of Prowse and Woodward's Amalgamated Co., for order for payment of further costs; adjourned until Thursday.

The Court then adjourned.

SAMUEL LESTER V. O. ROMBACH.

In this case Sir George Innes, instructed by Mr. Dunn, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Want, instructed by Mr. Marshall, for the defendant. The plaintiff claimed £133 6s., balance of money he alleged was due for fitting up a shop in George-street, under contract for the defendant. The original bill amounted to £283 6s., but from this amount £150 was deducted for cash paid. Defendant paid £37 11s. into Court, and claimed £64 as a set-off in respect of forfeitures and penalties under the contract. After hearig the facts of the case, his Honor gave plaintiff a verdict for £82 16s. in addition to the amount paid into Court.

Mary Halcop, 58, found drunk in Goulburn-street, was, on account of her manifest infirmity and old age, recommended for admission to the Benevolent Institution.

Charles Gibson and James Jones were charged with assaulting Herbert Gwynne, and robbing him of a watch valued at £9, on the 16th instant. Constable Bullen said that on the night in question he heard cries of murder at the foot of William-street; he saw Gibson escape from a struggle with prosecutor; he caught him, and on fetching him back to the scene of the struggle, Gwynne said Gibson had stolen his watch; Gwynne also said that Jones had tried to strangle him; Gibson affirmed that he was trying to part the other two, who he thought were quarrelling with each other. The prosecutor said he was a drover living on the Waringal, and while in company with a young woman on the day mentioned in the information, some person went behind him and put an arm round his throat; in an instant Gibson ran up, unclasped his belt, and took away his pouch with a watch in it; he got free with some difficulty, but before he wrenched the man's arm from his neck he could not speak; Gibson tried to get away, and was too strong for him to hold; Gibson threw him down several times, and Jones choked him off. Gibson; he was quite sober at the time; he was robbed before Jones appeared on the scene, and Jones as far as he knew had nothing to do with the robbery; he could not say who it was put an arm round his neck. Patrick Steven, a cab-driver, gave evidence in the case, and stated that he saw a struggle between some men at the point indicated by the prosecutor. The prisoner Gibson was committed to take his trial at the next Quarter Sessions.

Albert Cocksedge was charged with stealing a purse containing one shilling and twopence and a railway ticket, the property of Mrs. Wedderburn. Constable Macintosh said he saw prisoner pluck something from the dress of Mrs. Wedderburn; he ran after him 400 or 500 yards, and on catching him found on him a pocket-book containing 1s. 2d. and a railway ticket; the affair happened in King-street on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Wedderburn did not appear to prosecute, and, as the property was not identified, the prisoner was discharged.

Frances J. Webster, for selling liquor during prohibited hours, was fined 10s., and 5s. costs.

Ada Webb was fined 10s. for being drunk in Oxford-street; and 40s., and 7s. 4d. costs, or one month for using obscene language.

THE EXTRADITION OF CRIMINALS.

(From the Morning Post, June 14.)

The Royal Commission appointed to inquire into and report upon the existing law governing the extradition of criminals has issued an elaborate report, which will no doubt be shortly made the basis of legislation. From time to time, and owing to a variety of causes, the principles on which the extradition of alleged criminals is based have given rise to serious differences between the Government of this country and those of other States with which Extradition Treaties have been concluded. A few years since an attempt was made to reconcile these differences by passing the Extradition Treaty Act, an enactment which to a great extent assimilated the proceedings taken in this country on the occasion of a demand for the extradition of a criminal with those adopted in other States. A very short time, however, elapsed before it was discovered that the new arrangements, however excellent in themselves, conflicted with the provisions of an existing treaty which had been somehow overlooked. The Extradition Treaty Act provided that no alleged criminal should be surrendered to a foreign Government save on the assurance that he should not be tried for any other offence except that which supplied the ground of his extradition. But it so happened that in a treaty concluded many years before the passing of this Act between Great Britain and the United States for the extradition of criminals no such condition was introduced. Fugitives from justice had over and over again been surrendered by the British and American Governments without any similar reservation, and in at least one case it was beyond doubt that the authorities in this country had tried a man who had been surrendered to them by the American Government on his trial for an offence other than that for which his extradition had been granted. A case having arisen subsequent to the passing of the Act in which the Government of the United States refused to give the guarantee imposed by the statute, her Majesty's Government found themselves compelled to discharge the criminal. The American Government thereupon, refusing to be bound by an Act of the British Parliament, and relying solely on the terms of the existing treaty, manifested their displeasure by suspending the treaty. Some time afterwards a compromise was effected, and a Royal Commission was appointed to reconsider the entire question of the law of extradition.

The Commissioners begin by setting forth the grounds upon which the extradition of criminals is based; and, as these are as much in the interest of the country demanding as of the country surrendering, they arrive at the conclusion that the introduction of what is known as the principle of reciprocity into extradition treaties is fallacious, and they propose that a statutory power should be given to the authorities to deliver up fugitive criminals irrespective of any treaty existing for such purpose with the country demanding their surrender. Against this proposal it is not easy to understand what objection can be offered, assuming that it is for the interest of society that fugitives from justice should be brought to account. The second question dealt with by the Commission, whether a State should surrender its own subjects, is, however, not so easily disposed of. The pros and cons are set forth with great impartiality in the report, and the conclusion arrived at is that a State should surrender its own subjects for offences committed within the jurisdiction of foreign States. It must be admitted that the stereotyped clause at present to be found in extradition treaties which excludes from their operation the subjects of the State in which the demand for surrender is made could alone be justified on the assumption that the State refusing to surrender an offender could, by the exercise of its own jurisdiction, bring him to justice. But as a matter of fact such is very rarely the case. For example, suppose an Englishman commits a robbery in Paris and flies to England, an English court has no jurisdiction to try him, and by the terms of the existing treaty her Majesty's Government would be bound to refuse his extradition. The only explanation of a refusal by a State under such circumstances to surrender one of its own subjects would be the consciousness that he would not have a fair trial, but it is manifestly unreasonable and impolitic to base the conduct of an Administration upon such an assumption. Unless we have confidence in the good faith and in the justice of the State which seeks the surrender of a criminal we should not give up even a foreigner; and if we have that confidence in the one case we may equally have it in the other. It may also be added that if the principle of the non-surrender of "own subjects" was to be acted upon the laws would have to be considerably changed, and jurisdiction conferred upon English Courts in a variety of cases in which it is now wanting.

It is proposed to generalise the offences which may be made the basis of extradition, and, whilst carefully excluding political offences from the category, to admit serious crimes though committed with a political object. This suggestion will probably give rise to warm discussion, but it appears to us that the principle which underlies the proposal of the Commissioners is sound. A political motive ought not, according to the terms of the report, to supply a ground for refusing the surrender of a criminal in cases where, if such motive were absent, his extradition would be granted. An exception is, however, taken in the case of offences committed in the prosecution of civil war. In all cases of doubt whether offences do or do not come within the political category a discretionary power will be given to the magistrates. It is proposed, no doubt, in conformity with the spirit and letter of the proposed new Criminal Code, to abolish the principle which at present classifies extradition offences on the basis of their extreme gravity. It suggested that all offences against the person or the property indictable by our law should supply ground for extradition, with the exception of course of those of a political and quasi-political kind. With respect to the vexed question of trying a man for an offence distinct from that which has supplied the ground of his extradition, the Commissioners, with the exception of Mr. M'Cullagh Torrens, see no reason why such a course should not be taken provided the second accusation is not based on a political offence. Assuming that Parliament assents to the proposal to increase the category of extradition offences so as to include all which are now indictable, the last suggestion will lose much of its importance, because, ex hypothesi, the Government making the demand for extradition would be enabled to state all the offences for which the extradition of the criminal was demanded. We do not think, therefore, that either this proposal of the majority of the Commissioners or the protest of Mr. Torrens will demand much attention. On the whole, the report now issued is one which will recommend itself to the acceptance of the public, and we have little doubt that when duly incorporated in a bill it will secure the approval of Parliament.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS and Co., Homœopathic Chemists London.—ADV.

Adelaide is quoted at from £12 10s. to £13 10s. A fair trade demand is reported. A cargo of Rivoli Bay wheat sold at about 5s. 10d. per bushel. The sugar market is dull. In teas, there is very little doing. Inquiries continue for fine qualities. Mediums are still in heavy stock, and recent arrivals have filled the markets with common rations. There is some demand for Liverpool salt at 72s. 6d., the bulk of that recently to hand having been placed to arrive. Parcels of good currants are in fair inquiry, at about 5¼d. Candles have been freely dealt in lately, but at a reduction on the ruling prices; good brands are not worth more than from 9d. to 9¼d. Stocks of hops have been relieved owing to a speculative demand for Melbourne, and in consequence the market is somewhat firmer; but Kent are quoted at from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.; best Californian, 10d. Tennant's ale is scarce, and lots to arrive command 9s. 9d. quarts, and 6s. 9d. pints. Raw and boiled oil in drums is moving off at 3s. 10d. to 3s. 11d. Woolpacks in fair demand, from 3s. 7d. to 3s. 8d. Of pig iron sales have been made to arrive at £4 5s. In heavy goods, galvanized iron fencing wire there is little doing.

The return of produce received by the Great Southern, Western, and Richmond Railways, for the week ending August 17, was as follows:—Redfern station: Wheat, 28 bags; flour, 284 bags; maize, 6 bags; potatoes, 803 bags; bran, 97 bags; wool, 78 bales; sheepskins, 143 bundles. At Darling Harbour Station: Maize, 12 bags; potatoes, 502 bags; turnips, 138 bags.

MELBOURNE LIVE STOCK REPORT.

[Messrs. J. C. Walker and Co.]

Melbourne, Aug. 7.

Fat Cattle: 1580 fat cattle yarded and passed the hammer to-day, coming from Gippsland, the Westward, Riverina, the far North, and some few lots from paddocks near town; the quality being medium to prime. The large supply brought a fair attendance of country buyers, but the number being far in excess of requirements, a reduction of 20s per head had to be submitted to. Quotations: Prime quality bullocks, £10 to £11 15s; good, £8 10s to £9 10s; medium, £6 10s to £7 10s; inferior, £4 to £5 10s; best cows, £7 10s to £8; others from £3 to £6 10s. The following are about the principal averages:—FF bullocks, £9 13s; James Tyson, Heyfield, £9 10s; C. and J. Degraves, £9 9s 3d. Fat Calves.—70 calves, nearly all of which were very inferior, and anything good sold at an increase of fully 10s per head, whilst the inferior were as difficult to quit as usual. Best in made 60s to 80s, medium, 45s to 50s; inferior, 15s to 30s. Fat Sheep: 15,709 sheep, all qualities being represented. Cross-bred sheep suffered a slight decline, whilst merinos fetched about last Wednesday's prices. Quotations—Prime cross-bred wethers, 20s to 21s; good ditto ditto, 14s to 15s; prime heavy cross-bred ewes, 13s to 14s; prime merino wethers, 13s 6d to 14s 6d; extra heavy and prime, to 16s; medium merino wethers, 11s to 12s; inferior, 9s to 10s 6d; prime merino ewes, 11s 6d to 12s; good, 9s to 10s; inferior, 7s 9d to 8s 6d. We sold—A draft of merino wethers for Messrs. Shanahan and Jennings, Warbreccan, Riverina, at 16s. all round, no culls, being the top price of the market, except one picked small lot of a score which made a higher figure. We also sold—2227 wethers from Bael Bael; a draft of cross-bred ewes for Mr. Cornish, 12s; and a small lot for Mr. Coutts, at 12s. Fat Lambs: 1472 lambs, about half being this season's. The market was a bad one, and prices fell 2s to 3s from the high rates of last week. Best young lambs made 8s to 9s 6d; good, 6s to 7s 6d; inferior, lower. We sold 136 this season's Warbreccan lambs for Messrs. Shanahan and Jennings, at 9s 6d, being the top of the market; also, 155 for Mr. A. C. Wilson, 96 for Mr. Munckton, 72 for Mr. Coutts, and 42 for Mr. Dillon, at various prices to 9s. Store Stock: Store cattle are not in good demand either in Riverina or Victoria. Good bullocks of fattening ages are obtainable at £5 per head, cows at £2 10s to £3. Store sheep are in fair demand for delivery after shearing. Quotations for Riverina ewes delivered off the board, 7s 6d to 10s 6d, according to the quality. If we have a good spring, a fair amount of business will be done. Stations are in fair request, but there is difficulty in obtaining owners' reserves.

Sandhurst, August 13.

Fat Cattle: 646 yarded, about half of which were only suitable for graziers. The supply was too heavy for requirements, and the market opened dull, closing with prices about £1 per head below last week's rates. We quote—Best bullocks in, £9 to £10; good quality ditto, £5 2s 6d to £6 15s; and others, to £4 10s; best cows in, £5 to £6 10s; good cows, to £4 15s; medium and inferior, to £3 10s. We sold—170 for Messrs. F. Campbell, Bryant, Nankervis, Tonkin, and others, at market rates. Fat Calves: 75 yarded. This number was too heavy for the demand, and prices ruled lower. We sold 17 from the neighbourhood at 35s. Fat Sheep: 7052 yarded. Fully one-half of this number was stores, the rest medium to good. Good sheep made late rates, with the demand easier, while inferior sorts sold readily. We quote—Best wethers in, 13s 6d to 15s 3d; good, 12s to 13s; others, to 9s 4d; best ewes in, to 13s; good, 9s to 10s 6d; others, to 8s. We sold 1125 for Messrs. Lawrence, Ross, the Hon. W. Campbell, J. Dillon, Monaghan, and others, at quotations. Fat Lambs: 520 yarded. Prices ruled the same as last week, with a dull market. We sold 62 from the neighbourhood, to 7s for good quality; medium made to 5s 6d.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 20, 1878.

Our last London letter on social affairs in England, points to the probability of a renewed agitation in favour of reciprocity in trade. There is abundant reason in the nature of the case, to believe that the writer's anticipations will be verified. It is a comparatively easy thing to hold to sound principles when the results of their operation are clearly seen to tell in one's own favour; but the time for trying the real strength of one's faith comes when other people only appear to be getting the benefit, and the tendency of affairs seems to be to one's own disadvantage. Much of the popularity of free trade in England is due to the fact that the controversy with protection began by an agitation that reduced the price of bread, whilst the expansion of manufactures and commerce that followed gave the new policy all the prestige of a winning cause. The reaction that has since set in, the dulness of trade, the increasing pressure of foreign competition, and the patent fact that foreign competition in the English market is facilitated by the English policy of free trade, tend inevitably to make those who suffer by these things question whether, after all, free trade is so good a system as they had supposed it to be. And it will not be surprising if many whose past adherence to free trade has not arisen from a thorough understanding of the principles on which it is based, should be ready, under the strain of hard times to cast longing looks in the direction of protection, especially when it is advocated under the name of reciprocity. And in view of the liability of public opinion to fluctuation, especially when the national vanity or the self-interest of influential classes is touched, it would be rash to assume that an agitation for reciprocity would be wholly without result. For this is a question by which both the national vanity and the self-interest of influential classes are affected.

It is to be hoped, nevertheless, that the agitation, should it arise, will be successful only in bringing about a better understanding of what reciprocity really means, and in warning the country against the danger of retracing its steps. Reciprocity is protection under another name. There can be no need for an agreement between any two countries for the admission of their respective products duty free, unless the duties before collected have prevented or restricted trade. And to remit those duties so far as the trade between the two countries is concerned, whilst retaining them as to the rest of the world, is to unite for the maintenance of a protective policy. There are no Customs duties on goods that pass between Massachusetts and Virginia; but both States are protected as against the outer world. And if England and France made a reciprocal agreement for free trade, but continued to collect duties upon goods from Germany, Belgium, Austria, Russia, and the United States, there would as truly be a protective policy in force as there is in the United States. Further, it can easily be seen that a reciprocity agreement, rightly so called, cannot be made between a country that has a free trade tariff and a country that has a protective tariff. The fear just now in England is, that the English market may be swamped by cheap goods from the Continent of Europe. There would be no ground for such a fear if the English tariff were high enough to keep them out. On the other hand the continental tariffs are high enough to check importations from England. If therefore it were proposed to set up reciprocity between England and any continental country, there would be nothing for England to concede in return for concessions on the other side. The concessions desired by England would have to be purchased, by imposing upon goods from other countries duties which would not be charged upon goods from the country making the special bargain. France, for instance, might say to England, "We have nothing to gain for our trade by admitting your goods duty free, because ours can enter your market already; but if you will levy such duties on the goods of other countries as will keep them out, and give a monopoly to us, we will consider the question of admitting yours free in return." If such a proposition were assented to, England would become as protective in her policy as France.

As our correspondent puts the case, the English manufacturers, though free-traders to a man, cannot see the fairness of opening the English market to certain descriptions of goods when the same kinds of articles made in England are practically prohibited from entering France. But this is looking at the matter from the producer's standpoint, and leaving out of consideration the consumer's interest; and the error of taking only this one-sided view of things is at the very foundation of the protectionist system. These French goods would not be sent to England unless they would sell there; and they would not sell there to the disadvantage of the English producer unless they were cheaper than the English goods, or more attractive to the consumer for other reasons. Looking at the case from the consumer's standpoint, then, would it be fair to him to close the market and so prevent his getting what he wants of the best quality, or at the lowest price? When the result of opening the market is to bring about the sale of foreign goods, the inference is clear that the consumer has reasons for preferring those goods; but, according to the manufacturers, it is not fair that the consumer's interest should be studied.

It is legitimate for the English manufacturers, as freetraders, to object to the closing of the French market, but they cannot complain of the opening of the English market without taking up the very arguments used by the French manufacturers in support of protection. The French manufacturers want even increased import duties because they are afraid of English competition; and the feeling that animates them is precisely the same that is working upon the minds of their English rivals. In both cases the desire for a closer or absolutely close market throws out of consideration the interests of the consumer; and, in both countries, if the consumers' interests were fairly studied, the problem would find its solution in free-trade without any talk about reciprocity conditions. There is one point in the discussion that may be conveniently noticed at this stage. It is clearly implied by the fears of both the English and the French manufacturers that the English consumers would prefer French goods in the English market, whilst the French consumers would prefer English goods in the French market, the markets being open on both sides. How this could happen is a marvel, for it implies that, other things being equal, goods which have had to pay the cost of carriage across the Channel can be sold cheaper than goods that have not. It is hard to see how the English manufacturers can undersell the French manufacturers in France, and yet be undersold in England by French goods of the same kind. But, setting the complaints that are made on both sides of the Channel, aside, this is practically what they amount to.

It is not surprising that English manufacturers are beginning to feel the pressure of the competition produced by the development of manufacturing enterprise in other countries. England obtained a great start of other countries in some branches of industry; but it would be a mistake to suppose that she can hold a monopoly or even maintain at all times and under all circumstances an unchallengeable lead; and it would be a still greater mistake to seek a remedy for this competition by entering into special arrangements for the supply of special markets, instead of dealing on equal terms with all the world. The true kind of reciprocity that is wanted is free trade throughout the world; but that is hardly to be secured by reciprocity arrangements with particular countries, under which other countries would be placed at a disadvantage. England, as we have before shown, could not enter into such agreements without giving force to protection under another name, and that would be a strange way of attempting to convert the world to free-trade.

During the quarter ended the 30th June, 1878—the Australian autumn—1746 births and 1066 deaths were registered in the city and suburbs of Sydney, the births exceeding the deaths by 680.

The births comprised 878 boys and 868 girls; the deaths 575 males and 491 females. The natural increase of the population consisted therefore of 303 males and 377 females.

The females continue to exceed the males in numerical growth, the quarter's deaths in proportion to a hundred births being 65 males and only 56 females. The present metropolitan population is estimated at 88,286 males and 91,974 females; the females outnumbering the males by 3688.

The births and deaths of the past quarter were:—

Males died		316	259	575
Females died		268	223	491
Natural Increase.
Increase of	Males	112	191	303
	Females	155	222	377
Total increase		267	413	680

The total increase by births over deaths is here seen to have been only 267 in the city against 413 in the suburbs. The quarter's increase of females than that of males obtains in both places: in the city the females had increased more than the males by 43; in the suburbs, by 31.

The mean number of deaths in the ten preceding autumns, corrected for increase of population, was 525 in the city, and 278 in the suburbs. The deaths during the autumn of the present year were, therefore, in excess of the ten years' average by 59 in the city, and by 121 in the suburbs.

The annual rates of the quarter's births and deaths, relatively to the population estimated to be now living, were 38·8 births and 23·7 deaths in the whole division. Compared with the ten preceding autumns, those of the past quarter stand as follows:—

The mortality of the past quarter, compared with that of the ten preceding autumns, was as under:—

	City.	Suburbs.
Number of Deaths:—
In the autumn of 1878	584	482
Corrected mean numbers of the 10 autumns, 1868-77	525	361
Annual mortality per 1000:—
In the autumn of 1878	25·0	22·4
Mean of the 10 autumns, 1867-77	22·4	18·0

The quarter's mortality is thus far above the decennial average, in the city by 2·6, in the suburbs by 4·4 per thousand.

The quarter's comparative mortality in the suburbs severally, commencing with the most favourable, appears as follows:—The united districts of Paddington, Randwick, and Waverley, 16·5 per thousand; Redfern and Darlington, 17·3; St. Leonards and Manly, 17·4; Glebe, 21·9; St. George, 23·9; Waterloo, 25·2; Balmain, 26·5; Newtown, St. Peters, Macdonaldtown, and Camperdown, 29·4; Concord, 29·5.

In this instance the sanitary pre-eminence belongs to Paddington, 16·5; the most unfavourable position to Concord, 29·5.

The City Wards.—The annexed table shows the area, population, and mortality of the several wards of the city:—

The City Wards, June Quarter, 1878.

Wards.	Area in Statute Acres.	Population, 1878.	Persons to an acre.	Deaths in the quarter.	Annual rate per 1000.
1. Gipps	163	11,266	69·0	53	18·9
2. Bourke	292	6,606	22·8	117	70·8
3. Brisbane	108	9,201	85·2	40	17·4
4. Macquarie	189	10,016	53·2	27	38·8
5. Cook	761	18,496	24·3	96	20·6
6. Fitzroy	360	15,116	42·0	103	27·2
7. Phillip	240	10,327	43·0	78	30·0
8. Denison	433	12,769	29·5	70	22·0
Total	2546	93,887	36·9	584	25·0

The most densely peopled of the wards is Brisbane, whose inhabitants average more than 85 to an acre; the most numerously inhabited is Cook Ward, occupied by 18,496 persons; the most conspicuous for a high rate of mortality is Bourke Ward, its quarter's deaths averaging annually 70·8 per thousand, accounted for by its being the seat of the Infirmary; and the most favoured with the opposite mark is Brisbane Ward, its mortality being only 17·4 per thousand.

Deaths of Children.—The official returns in the Gazette did not give the deaths of children in the suburbs until the commencement of last year. Those within the city for the five autumns preceding the last are subjoined for the purpose of comparison.

Deaths of Children under 5 Years of Age within the City.

Autumn of	Children living in the city.*	Deaths of children.	Rate per 1000 children living.	To 1000 deaths at all ages.†
1873	11,946	149	50·0	355·1
1874	12,296	130	42·4	318·2
1875	12,656	226	71·6	285·7
1876	13,027	265	81·6	334·9
1877	13,408	179	53·6	324·0
Mean rates of the 5 years			59·8	325·6
1878	13,801	225	65·6	313·5

* The estimate of the number of children living is based on the assumption that the proportion of children in the city to its total population is the same as at the last census. So with the estimate for the suburbs.

† The deaths to 1000 deaths at all ages are not for the quarter, but for the month of June, as given in the Gazette tables.

The annual proportion of infant deaths last quarter to the infant population was 65·6 per 1000 against the average of 59·8, and the proportion to 1000 deaths at all ages was 313·5 against the average of 325·6.

The comparison between the infant mortality in the city and that of the suburbs for the last two autumns stands thus:—

Autumn of	Children living: City.	Children living: Suburbs.	Deaths of children: City.	Deaths of children: Suburbs.
1877	13,408	13,714	179	210
1878	13,801	14,424	225	275

	Rate to 1000 children living: City.	Rate to 1000 children living: Suburbs.	Deaths under 5 to 1000 at all ages: City.	Deaths under 5 to 1000 at all ages: Suburbs.
1877	53·6	60·7	324·0	428·6
1878	65·6	76·5	313·5	529·0
Mean	59·6	68·8	318·7	478·8

It here appears that the number of children is now greater in the suburbs than in the city. Hence it is not surprising that the number of infant deaths is greater. But another fact is surprising, namely, the proportion of deaths to the number living is greater, and also the proportion to the whole number of deaths. The means of the last two autumn quarters give a death rate amongst children of 59·6 in the city and of 68·8 in the suburbs; and a ratio of infant deaths to a thousand deaths at all ages, of 318·7 in the city, and 478·8 in the suburbs. It further appears that both in the city and in the suburbs the mortality of children was much higher last quarter than in the corresponding quarter.

The total births and deaths in the city and several suburbs during the last two autumns, with the present estimated populations, are given as follows:—

Births and Deaths in the Autumn Quarter.

	Population, 1878.	Births, 1877.	Births, 1878.	Deaths, 1877.	Deaths, 1878.
Metropolitan	180,260	1618	1703	895	1059

St. George	7,687	69	76	23	46
St. Leonards	7,342	58	61	18	32

The births show an increase in each suburb except Newtown and Redfern; and the deaths show an increase in every suburb except Redfern.

The annual rates, compared with population, were as under:—

Annual Rates per 1000 in the Autumn Quarter.

	Birth Rate, 1877.	Birth Rate, 1878.	Death Rate, 1877.	Death Rate, 1878.
Metropolitan	37·5	38·3	20·1	23·4

Suburbs	40·1	40·2	18·4	19·4
Suburbs:
Balmain	44·1	43·3	19·2	16·6
Glebe	44·2	36·6	22·6	21·7
Newtown	46·1	41·5	23·1	23·3
Redfern	49·1	47·3	20·9	21·0
Waterloo	42·3	46·1	20·9	20·2
Paddington	29·4	38·5	15·5	18·4
Concord	34·4	30·7	20·2	21·7
St. George	38·0	37·1	12·6	14·6
St. Leonards	33·2	34·7	10·9	17·1

The birth-rate is slightly higher both in the city and in the collective suburbs. The death-rate is 5 per 1000 higher in the city; 1·4 in the suburbs. In six of the suburbs—Newtown, Redfern, Paddington, Concord, St.

George, and St. Leonards—there is increased mortality: in the last two the increase is considerable, 2·2 in St. George, 6·3 in St. Leonards. On the other hand Balmain, Glebe, and Waterloo show lighter rates.

TEMPERATURE AND RAINFALL.—The quarter's mean shade temperature was rather below the average. The ten preceding autumns averaged 59·4; the present autumn is 58·2. The quarter's rainfall was 18·7 inches, nearly the same as the average of the ten previous autumns, 18·54.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

WE understand that the Government have been engaged upon the revision of the lists of new magistrates which have been recommended to them and their predecessors in office, and it is likely that new appointments to the number of nearly three hundred will be shortly gazetted.

MR. WHITTON left Sydney yesterday morning to inspect the Southern line in course of construction between Junee and Wagga.

THE mail steamer City of Sydney arrived at San Francisco, from Sydney, on the 14th instant, one day in advance of contract time.

A MEETING of the New South Wales Commissioners of the Paris Exhibition was held yesterday afternoon. The principal business was the reading of some observations by Mr. Charles Robinson, secretary, in reply to certain statements contained in the letter from our Paris correspondent, "Stella," anent the alleged difficulty which Mr. Jules Joubert experienced in obtaining a catalogue in time for the juries to proceed with their work in the New South Wales section.

AN advertisement in another column states that the Council of the Liquor Licensing Amendment Association, heads of temperance organizations, and others interested in social reform, will meet at the Temperance Hall, at 10 o'clock on Wednesday, morning, and thence proceed as a deputation to the Hon. J. S. Farnell, Premier, and his colleagues, to urge upon the Government the necessity for some reform of the present licensing laws.

THE City Corporation have, during the last few weeks, taken up the old mains, and laid a large main extending along Stanley-street to Palmer-street; at the corners of the side streets Yurong, Riley, Crown, and Francis streets, a lock has been placed at each corner. There have also been fire locks and plugs attached, which are easy of access in case of a fire breaking out. The improvements have been effected on the "block principle," which is employed in England. Instead of, as previously, being obliged to shut off the water at the main in the case of a breakage, it is only necessary to shut off the plug connected with the side street until the injury has been remedied.

THE Smyrna, which arrived yesterday morning with 447 immigrants from Plymouth, was placed in quarantine. Dr. H. G. Alleyne examined the ship yesterday, and we believe that he reports her to be in a bad sanitary condition. There have been nine deaths and four births on board during the voyage. Measles, scarlet fever, and enteric fever have occurred, and there are still on board patients suffering from those maladies.

THE successful competitor for the prize offered for the best design of a medal for the National Shipwreck Society is Mr. James F. Sayers, manager of the London Chartered Bank at Newcastle, and a gentleman who has before acquired some fame in artistic work. The design is remarkably chaste and pretty and peculiarly appropriate. On one side is represented a shipwreck with a lifeboat proceeding towards the scene. On the shore and forming the principal figures are a rescued man, with another who has saved him trying the ordinary means of restoring life to the apparently drowned; an angel with one hand holding a wreath extended towards the saver, and another on the shoulders of a woman who is depicted weeping with a babe in her arms. The border contains a suitable inscription, but it has not yet been fully decided that this will be the one adopted. The obverse contains a border of the nautical fashion, representing a lifebuoy with the usual tackle, and with the name of the society, the central part allowing space for the name of the receiver and the humane services he rendered which entitled him to such an honour.

A CASE interesting to Municipalities was heard yesterday in the Banco Court. The plaintiff, Smith (a cab-driver) sued the Mayor of Sydney for damages caused by running against a fence erected round an excavation. He claimed £500, and the jury returned him a verdict for £60.

A CHILD named George M'Arthur, 14 months old, was taken to the Infirmary, yesterday, suffering from the effects of teething. Death ensued about two hours after admission. At about half-past 7, last evening, Isabella Burnian, a little girl, aged about 4 or 5 years, was admitted from Woolloomooloo. She was suffering from extensive burns all over the body, and her recovery is doubtful.

AN inquest was held yesterday morning at the Australian Hotel, Belmore Park, concerning the death of Enrico Bencini, a native of Tuscany, who was killed on Sunday by a shot from a revolver. The deceased, it appears, had, with his wife, been invited to dine at the house of a countryman named Vozzi, who lives at 17, Stephen-street. On his arrival at Vozzi's residence, the dinner was not quite ready, and during the interval deceased appears to have taken up, unobserved, a loaded revolver that was in the drawer of a chiffonier, and while he was handling it one of the chambers went off, the contents entering his forehead above the right eye, causing death in a very short time. When the pistol went off, Vozzi, who was the only other person in the room with the deceased, was at the window filling his pipe, and did not see how the accident occurred, but the two men had been laughing and talking together up to the moment that the explosion took place. Dr. Brady, who examined the body, stated that from the direction the bullet had taken through the head the deceased had, most probably, been looking down the barrel of the weapon when it went off. The evidence showed that Vozzi and the deceased were old acquaintances, and had always been on the most friendly terms. The jury, after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict of accidental death.

IT will be in the recollection of our readers that the late Parliament voted a sum of money for the erection of the machinery necessary to desiccate the blood of the animals slaughtered at Glebe Island, and we are informed that tenders are about to be called for the construction and erection of the plant necessary to enable the inventor (Dr. Swan) to carry out his method of converting this refuse matter, by steam, into a portable and inodorous substance which will be of great value as a fertilizer. Meanwhile, however, the Colonial Treasurer (the Hon. H. E. Cohen), from considerations of public health, has determined to adopt the expedient of running the blood into tanks, to be fitted into punts, by which means it will be conveyed to sea. It is hoped by this means that the further pollution of the harbour will be averted, and that the nuisance arising from the slaughter-house to residents of the Glebe, Balmain, and Pyrmont will be mitigated.

WE learn that the lending branch of the Free Public Library has had a very satisfactory amount of public patronage during the last half-year; the number of tickets issued to borrowers, from 1st January to 31st July, 1878, being 1285. A large proportion of the borrowers are regular and careful readers, and it is gratifying to note the discrimination shown in their selection of books. 11,447 volumes have been issued; more than three-fourths of the number being of the higher intellectual and educational classes. For miscellaneous literature, included under Class H, there have been 3499 applicants; but only a very small proportion of these books are works of fiction. An addendum to the catalogue has been issued, and we are informed that since it was prepared for press, a further addition has been made to the number of books, and shipments of new books are ordered, so that there will be a continuous augmentation each month. It is to be regretted, that the library is not more centrally situated; but as the preliminary experiment has succeeded so well, the Government will, doubtless, take the matter in hand shortly. The monthly statement of the class of reading, from 1st January, 1878, to 31st July, 1878, shows that the number of books borrowed on natural philosophy, science, and the arts, was 1691; on history, chronology, antiquities, and mythology, 1511; on biography and correspondence, 1331; on geography, topography, voyages, and travels, 2231; on jurisprudence, 123; on mental and moral philosophy, &c., 512; on poetry and drama, 548; on miscellaneous subjects, 3409; and specifications of patents, 1; making the total, as stated, 11,447. The number of tickets issued since the 1st of January, 1878, was 1285; new tickets issued, 812; tickets renewed, 471; number of borrowers' visits, 11,349; volumes issued, 11,447; volumes returned, 10,698; volumes out, 754; volumes mutilated or destroyed, none; volumes added to the library since, 262; total number of volumes in library, 2795; number of days open for issue, 191; and the total transactions, 22,140.

A PRELIMINARY meeting of those interested in the erection of a music hall was held in Mr. W. H. Paling's shop last night. Mr. Paling was voted to the chair, and there were about fifty persons present, representing local musical societies, both professional and amateur. Mr. S. M. Mowle, secretary to the Civil Service Musical Society, explained the objects of the meeting, and upon the conclusion of his remarks a general discussion took place, during which it was stated that the necessity for a properly designed music hall existed in Sydney for the last twenty years, and that the present places available for musical entertainments and practising purposes were unsuitable and too expensive for the requirements of the musical community of Sydney. After these matters had been duly ventilated, it was affirmed, on the motion of Mr. C. J. Fisher that it was desirable that steps should be taken to provide a suitable music hall in the city. Several schemes were referred to as suitable bases upon which to operate for attaining the contemplated object, and eventually a committee was formed to consider which of them was most tangible. This committee consisted of Messrs. Paling, Mowle, Callan, Lyons, Gorman, Fisher, Slattery, Barker, Debelle, M'Cutcheon, Parker, Kellerman, and Muller, and met immediately upon the general meeting concluding. After some deliberation a resolution was moved by one of their number to the effect that a music hall be built by private enterprise in the shape of a limited liability company, but owing to the lateness of the hour, discussion on it was adjourned until to-morrow week.

THE second annual meeting of the Woollahra Victoria C. C. was held on Tuesday evening last, the president (Rev. W. Bradley) occupying the chair. According to the secretary's report, the club had enjoyed a large share of prosperity during the season. Out of thirty-one matches, only nine were lost. The treasurer's statement showed a very fair balance, after the somewhat heavy expenses which necessarily attends cricket clubs in their infancy. After a vote of thanks to the retiring officers, the presentation of trophies then took place. Mr. A. H. Gregory, for highest batting average, thirty matches, 10 runs per innings; Mr. A. Pitt, highest bowling, 2½ runs per wicket; and extra trophy, Mr. G. Sands, for second highest batting and bowling. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Rev. W. Bradley; vice-presidents, Messrs. J. Sands and F. Holmes; secretary, Mr. G. Sands; treasurer, Mr. J. Miller; committee, Messrs. F. Holmes, T. Griffiths, H. Hopkins. After concluding the business matters, the members then betook themselves to an excellent spread, enlivening the proceedings with several songs, &c. After spending a very enjoyable evening, the company broke up after singing the National Anthem.

ANOTHER step in the progress of municipal affairs at Manly was made on Saturday night, when its streets were lighted up for the first time. The lamps used are on the model of the Sydney street lamp. The agent at present employed in illuminating is kerosene, and is said to give an excellent light, enabling the inhabitants and the many visitors who frequent the suburb to traverse its streets by night with facility and comfort. The standard of the lamp is like that of the St. Leonards street gas-lamp, and will admit of the use of gas when a company shall have been formed to introduce it. It is hoped that many months will not elapse before the borough is supplied with gas, and already, in anticipation of this, new houses have been provided with the necessary fittings. As Manly has only been incorporated something like eighteen months, and has during that time had some of its principal streets formed, and secured the establishment of a fire brigade and the lighting up its streets, its municipal authorities have certainly exhibited an energy worthy of imitation in some other suburbs of the city.

AN advertisement in another column states that the sale of plain and fancy work in All Saints' schoolroom, Ocean-street, Woollahra, is to be continued this (Tuesday) afternoon and evening, and that a number of useful and ornamental articles will be offered.

AT the Central Criminal Court yesterday, a verdict of manslaughter was returned against Joseph Windeyer, alias Cooper, who stood indicted for the wilful murder of Emma Gilbert. This case has been frequently spoken of as the "Sussex-street Murder." The deceased woman was unmarried, and lived with the prisoner. On the morning of June 30th, Windeyer reported to the police that the woman was dead, and he was afterwards arrested on suspicion of causing her death. The evidence yesterday did not differ materially from that given before the Coroner's Court. The jury were about half a hour considering their verdict, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

THE following extract from a letter from Mr. Thomas Woolner, addressed to Sir Henry Parkes, will be interesting to the public in relation to the completion of the Cook Statue. It appears that Sir Henry Parkes formed the acquaintance of Mr. Woolner when that gentleman visited the colonies many years ago, before his reputation as a sculptor was established, and that, while holding office as Colonial Secretary, Sir Henry placed the execution of the Cook Statue in his hands. Mr. Woolner writes under date June 23rd: "I write to tell you that the statue of Captain Cook is completed in bronze, and will be placed, I hope, on its pedestal the day after to-morrow. I should not like that you should first know of its completion from the newspapers, as it always appears to me you are the real fountain whence it came in its present form. Although I had a vast amount of annoyance to begin with, I have got over it now, and can regard the incidents as parts of a remote drama. I sincerely hope that the work may please the public of New South Wales, and trust they may think I have done justice to their great Discoverer. All the persons here who have seen it have expressed themselves well pleased. It is curious to observe the effect Cook's name has on persons; it is like the sound of a trumpet: such is the growing force of an heroic life. A few great deeds have not this effect on generations; it must be a whole life devoted to priceless labour that can achieve this rare result."

MR. E. B. WOODHOUSE's well-known shorthorn cow, Pet 2nd, the dam of the champion bull Imperial Purple 9th, Princess Purple 8th, and several other prize shorthorns, died on the morning of the 17th instant, at Mount Gilead. Since the birth of her last calf, Pets Alvie, she had been ailing, and suffered from a debility which veterinary skill could not remove. She was a very valuable cow, a statement which is well supported by the fact that £407 15s. each was the average price obtained for her stock. Three of her daughters appear in the catalogue for the Mount Gilead sale, which will be held on the 11th proximo.

WE have received a copy of the "Australian" Turf Register for 1878. It contains an index to races past; a turf register from July, 1877, to July, 1878; the winners of the principal races in England, the owners, and time; the winners of the principal colonial races; the entries for coming events during 1878, 1879, 1880, 1881; the Victoria Racing Club nominations, Australian Jockey Club nominations; the Geelong Racing Club nominations; Queensland Turf Club nominations; registered colours; the rules of the Victorian Racing Club; V. R. C. standard weights for age; Victorian Racing Club by-laws; A. J. C. standard weights for age; the rules of Victorian Tattersall's; index to running horses. The publication shows great care taken in its compilation, and is very well printed. It is published for the proprietors of The "Australasian," by Messrs. Stillwell and Co., of Collins-street East.

ON the 16th instant Charles W. Crawshaw and Johannah Crawshaw were committed for trial by the Bombala bench for having maliciously set fire to the Imperial Hotel. From the evidence, as published in the "Bombala Herald," it appears that the fire occurred on the 2nd July last, and that Crawshaw was the tenant of the Imperial Hotel. Crawshaw, in December last, had written to H. N. Rowley, of Merimbula, from whom the hotel was rented, representing that very little business was to be done in it, and asking for a reduction of the rent; and in June, he again wrote saying he could not make it pay, and would have to file his schedule. Crawshaw, some time in April, stated that if he could not sell the place he would burn it; that Rowley had cheated him. A good deal of circumstantial evidence was adduced in reference to the placing of large quantities of kerosene in the billiard-room and commercial-room, and to the removal of goods immediately before the fire. The accused reserved their defence, and both were committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court.

AT the Circular Quay, the planks have been shattered in some places by the multitubular boilers which have recently been made to the order of the Government. The boilers broke a main and some service pipes outside of Mr. Yeo's shop in Pitt-street. The Corporation men, under the superintendence of Mr. D. G. Robertson, commenced to repair the damages at 12 o'clock on Sunday night, and by daylight had finished work.

A MAN, who has not yet been identified, when near the railway line at Riddell's Creek, Victoria, on the 13th instant, rushed from the top of the embankment and threw himself on the rails as a luggage train was approaching from Sandhurst towards Melbourne. When the engine-driver saw him the engine was reversed, but the train could not be stopped before it reached the man, whose body was dragged along the line and fearfully mangled. The man had plenty of time to remove himself had he chosen to do so. He was apparently about 35 years of age, a mechanic, and was dressed in tweed trousers and vest. A coroner's jury affirmed that every means in their power was used by those in charge of the train to save him.

SPORTING.

The settling over the late Midwinter Meeting took place at Tattersall's last evening, when the prizes were paid over. The general settling followed, and passed off well. The attendance of members was fair, and some business was transacted upon coming events. Auckland was firm for the Hawkesbury Grand Handicap at 100 to 16, and Colima came into the market with force at 100 to 12, a price at which Nerissa, Mileta, and Woodlands also found friends. Auckland did a good gallop at Randwick yesterday; and at the Hawkesbury his Lordship, Roo'dee, Soothsayer, and Woodlands have been doing the best work. Woolstone, Dockwood, and two others belonging to Mr. Kite, have taken up their quarters at Richmond, and are said to be in excellent condition. A special train for the conveyance of racehorses will leave Sydney for Richmond, at 1.30 p.m. to-day.

We understand that it is the intention of his Excellency the Governor to be present at the Hawkesbury races on Thursday.

FOOTBALL.

INTERCOLONIAL MATCH AT MELBOURNE.

On Saturday, an intercolonial football match, between the Melbourne Club and South Australia, took place on the East Melbourne ground. Both sides were represented by strong teams. They were as follow:—Adelaide—Downs (captain), Warren (vice-captain), Stratton, Frayne, Mehrtens (two), Colby, Atkinson, Salberg, Bohlman, Richards, Bothwell, Poole, Brown, Minnie, Miller, Knill, Prideaux, Shawyer, Tolley, Osborne. Melbourne—F. Baker, Bennie, Booth, Boys, J. V. Cook, E. Cooke, Cooper, Crohan, Downes, Houston, Longden, Macdonald, A. M'Kie, J. M'Kie, Nicholas, Sandilands, Sherard, Sillett (captain), Simson, Waldron; emergency—Tennent.

We learn by telegraph that there were about 3000 spectators present. The ground, after the heavy rain, was very soft and muddy. The South Australians were altogether overmatched, and Melbourne obtained a goal before half-time, besides eighteen behinds. The game was pretty well all on one side. There were numerous falls, owing to the state of the ground. Yesterday (Monday) they engaged in another match.

NEWINGTON COLLEGE v. GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The first fifteens of these schools met for the first time, this season, on the College ground, on Saturday, and the match resulted in a victory for Newington by one goal. The play during the earlier part of the game was very even, both sides being in good form. Towards half-time, however, A. Warden (who played well throughout) succeeded in obtaining a touch down for Newington, but the try at goal proved a failure. After half-time was called the game continued "fast and furious." The ball was worked well-up to the Grammar School goal, when Warden again, by a good drop-kick, obtained a goal, which was disputed, the umpires being divided on the subject. The matter was left to the decision of the Newington captain, who relinquished the claim. Immediately after this, however, A. Warden was again to the fore, and obtained another touch-down for Newington, and this time Martin, by a grand and difficult kick, lodged the ball between the goal posts. The Grammar School team made a grand effort to retrieve their position, and gradually forced the ball towards the Newington goal, which ended in Wilkinson securing a touch-down for them, but the attempt at goal failed. Nothing definite occurred after this, and the game resulted in another victory for Newington. The game was played in a very friendly manner throughout, and the captains (Mullens and Warden) deserve a compliment for the management of their teams. After having some refreshment, the Grammar School team returned to Sydney by steamer, cheers being interchanged on leaving the Newington Wharf. It has been suggested that the Wallaroo Club should play a match versus the combined schools, before the season closes.

KING'S SCHOOL v. NEWINGTON COLLEGE.

On Saturday, the 10th instant, a very close match was played between the above named clubs at Newington. Until after half-time was called, neither side obtained any advantage. Soon after half-time, however, Henry obtained a touch down for the King's School, from which Hillas kicked a goal. Newington then gradually worked the ball towards their opponent's goal, till Rygate, by a very good run in, scored a touch-down for Newington, and Martin kicked a goal from it. From this out, although the ball was often dangerously close to King's School quarters, nothing was obtained, and the match ended in a draw, after one of the closest contests ever engaged in between these two schools.

The play of Nobbs, Brown, Leigh, and Hillas, for the King's School, and that of Martin, A. and W. Warden, and R. Glasson, for Newington, deserve special mention. Both teams, however, played well throughout, and the Newington fifteen was one of the best that has ever represented the college.

CALDER HOUSE v. NEWTOWN.

This match was played on Saturday, and was drawn, both sides getting a touch down. Strickland especially distinguished himself for Calder House by running past all his opponents and obtaining a touch down for his side. M'Call secured the touch down for Newtown.

THE GROWTH OF LONDON.—An important return has just been issued by the Metropolitan Board of Works showing the "number of inhabited houses, population, and ratable annual value of the parishes and districts comprised within the metropolitan area in the years 1856 and 1876, or as near those dates as can be accurately stated." According to this return, it appears that the total ratable annual value has more than doubled itself within the twenty years. In 1856 the amount was £11,233,663, and in 1876 it was £23,111,313. The total number of inhabited houses has increased from 306,086 in 1851 to 419,642 in 1871, but in this column a decrease is shown in respect of the city of London. The number of inhabited houses in the city in 1851 was 14,483, but in 1871 there were only 9236. In 1851 the population of the metropolis was 2,363,405, and in 1871 it had increased to 3,266,987. The figures given in respect of the year 1871 are of course those of the last census. This return has been issued in view of a possible readjustment of the representation of the several Vestries and District Boards at the Metropolitan Board of Works.

THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

A meeting of the Commissioners for the Paris Exhibition was held yesterday afternoon. Present—Mr. Brodribb, F.R.S., in the chair, Mr. Halloran, C.M.G., Mr. Wallis, Mr. Moore, Mr. Morris, Mr. Montefiore, and Mr. Adams.

CORRESPONDENCE, &c.

A great deal of correspondence of a routine character was dealt with, and several accounts were ordered to be paid. In connection with one letter from Mr. Joubert, the secretary of the Commissioners of the Paris Exhibition, it was decided that the Government should be asked to forward to Paris all works printed at the Government Printing Office, having reference to the animal, mineral, or vegetable products of the colony.

THE CATALOGUES.

The SECRETARY (Mr. C. Robinson) by permission of the chairman, made the following observations:—"I invite your attention to a letter on the Paris Exhibition published in the Herald on the 14th August, which appears to me to reflect injuriously on the Commission, and to require explanation from me as your secretary. The intimate relations which have been established between M. Jules Joubert, his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and the Arch-Duke Charles of Austria would naturally attract the notice of visitors to the Exhibition; but most of the statements contained in this letter are obviously based on information supplied by some one connected with the New South Wales Commission in Paris, and they appear to have been accepted with that consideration to which their semi-official character would entitle them. Of the elaborate embellishments and dramatic situations contained in this communication, I do not desire to speak further than to say that the imputations of neglect which they are designed to support, are wholly without foundation in fact. Substantially they amount to this, that the articles sent by this colony to the Exhibition would not have been examined by the juries but for the chance arrival of a visitor with a catalogue, and for the almost superhuman efforts of M. Joubert and 'all the people' in the New South Wales Court to remedy the 'inconceivable neglect' of some one in the colony. It will be within your recollection that this Commission was not appointed until that of Victoria had completed and shipped their collections. You determined to receive articles up to the latest date at which there was reason to believe they could be got into the Exhibition; but at the same time, as goods were received you shipped them by steamers going direct to London through the Suez Canal. Without this extension of time you would have had scarcely any wheat, would have shut out several samples of wine and other exhibits, and would have altogether lost the important collection of prize wools (many of them from Riverina, whence few samples had been received), which were secured at the close of Messrs. Goldsbrough and Co.'s exhibition, held in Melbourne in February. Owing to the late reception of exhibits the catalogue could not be completed until towards the end of March. You approved of the catalogue submitted at your meeting of the 9th of April, and the Government Printer was good enough to set aside urgent work in order to get 600 copies ready by the 12th. The P. and O. Company's mail steamer left Sydney on that or the following day; but as the agent had obligingly promised to receive one case as late freight, the catalogues were got off, 400 copies having been packed and placed on board the mail steamer within two hours after they were received from the printer. These being the exact facts, the allegations contained in this letter are based upon misapprehension. It is stated that the catalogues were being sold in Sydney three weeks before the departure of the mail. Mr. Richards, however, authorises me to say that the only copies issued from the printing office were the draft copies submitted for approval on the 9th of April, and the 600 delivered to me on the 12th. The catalogues, said to have evoked such a burst of cheering in the New South Wales Court, was given by your storekeeper to Mr. Castner one hour, not three weeks, before the mail left. The case and its contents were named in the invoice and also specifically referred to by letter. I now submit copies of the different invoices sent in duplicate to the Agent-General and the Commissioners in Paris with each shipment from Sydney. You will observe that in the first column the number of the package is entered, in the second a statement of its contents, in the third the name of the exhibitor, and in the fourth such suggestions or directions as you may have given. The Herald's Paris Correspondent has been informed that the invoices 'contained no names whatever, neither of senders nor of places.'" There is also this statement: 'Driven to desperation by this terrible official thunderbolt' (the Prince of Wales' message to M. Joubert) 'and without a single name to guide him, M. Joubert then set to work to make a catalogue,' &c. I think it will be seen that had the invoices been read, there would not have been any sufficient reason why 'M. Jules Joubert and all connected with this court' should have been 'driven almost frantic by the absence of this catalogue;'—why the patience of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and the whole British Commission should have been strained and their sympathetic anguish excited;' why M. Joubert should have 'set to work to fabricate a fictitious catalogue 'without a single name to guide him; why he should have been compelled to 'relieve his excited feelings by sending a set of vigorous objurgations from time to time to whomsoever might be at the bottom of the inconceivable neglect which had thus jeopardised the success of the splendid exhibition;' why he should have appealed either to the 'love of heaven,' or a 'hundred guineas' for a catalogue, or why 'all the people connected with the New South Wales department' should have been kept waiting 'in a fever of anxiety' the result of that appeal. The 'warm hurrah,' and midnight toil which followed would not have been necessary, for the simple reason that with these invoices in the possession of M. Joubert, there ought never to have been any danger of 'the New South Wales exhibitors being excluded from the examination of the juries.' The information on the invoices was all sufficient, while in the case of many of the packages—wool showcases for example—not only the name of the exhibitor, but his address was painted in bold letters by a sign writer. In regard to all the cases packed in Sydney, your storekeeper informs me that he carried out my directions by placing in each package the sheets of cardboard which I had prepared, and on which were printed in bold characters the address on the outside of the case, and upon which were written the invoice number, the name of the exhibitor, and a statement of the contents of the package in which it was enclosed. It is gratifying to observe that 'the Prince and the whole British Commission, aware of the difficulty created by the neglect of the people on your side in regard to a matter of such vital importance to the exhibitors of your colony, and sympathising with the anxiety and distress thus occasioned over here, congratulated M. Joubert with great cordiality on the fortunate issue secured by his promptitude and activity;' more particularly since 'the Prince kindly complimented him on the specially excellent performance of the task;' but I regret that the admiration of his Royal Highness for the manner in which the New South Wales award papers were written up should not have been communicated to the Herald's correspondent without, at the same time, imputing obloquy to the Commissioners in Sydney or unfaithfulness to me whom they entrusted with the duty of carrying out their instructions. The statements I now make can at once be verified by documents on the table, and I invite the fullest inquiry." He also said that on the 12th April 425 copies of the catalogue had been forwarded by the P. and O. Company's mail, and were without doubt in the possession of the Commissioners before the jurors met. M. Joubert, in his own letter, stated he had them in his possession on the 9th June, and "Stella's" letter to the Herald was written on the 14th. Mr. Morris said that M. Joubert had acknowledged receipt of the catalogues to Captain Jopp on the 9th June, and that was the very day the Prince of Wales arrived. He might say that at Philadelphia Mr. Robinson had been first ready with his list, which he had prepared in an hour and a-half from the invoices. On the 4th July M. Joubert wrote, and alluding to a letter he had written on the 19th June said, "Since that day the New South Wales Court has been visited by the various juries in groups, 1, 5, and 7, in which the colony is largely represented." That letter, therefore, showed that M. Joubert had the catalogue at least ten days before any of the juries visited the court.

On the motion of Mr. MOORE, seconded by Mr. HALLORAN, it was then agreed that the editor of the Herald be respectfully requested to publish Mr. Robinson's explanation.

This concluded the business.

PRODUCTION OF ALCOHOL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The following quotation from the first leader of your issue of the 15th instant, stands as an apothegm to the following remarks:—We should be, you say, "left to find out what is the best way of developing the resources of our country." Most true. And had we a Legislative Assembly not chiefly composed of incompetent drones, a useful law on distillation would speedily be bestowed on the country, which would as speedily constitute one of the sure sources of agricultural wealth which the colony offers. I unhesitatingly affirm that millions of gallons of alcohol might be obtained by the distillation of the Holcum saccharatum, the growth of which the climate of New South Wales eminently suits. This plant resembles the maize, but bears no corn; whilst it yields by distillation twenty per cent. of excellent alcohol, which would find a ready market in England to supply the ever-increasing consumption of this product in a long series of trades and manufactures.

The cultivation of this plant is easy, certain, and economical; its yield is heavy, and, being used before it bears its seed, it does not scourge the land. The refuse, after distillation, forms an excellent food for cattle.

The fix of the colony would receive much from this unknown source of wealth; and New South Wales would soon become one of the first alcohol producing countries in the world.

France, pre-eminently gifted with initiative talent, has fully proved what may be done, in this sense, in her colony of Algeria. I am, your obedient servant,

A FATHER SHOOTING HIS SON.—A crime has taken place at Saint-Ouen under the following circumstances:—A workman named Minard, an habitual drunkard, returning home two nights back, began to illtreat his wife. His son, a brave little fellow of ten, seeing this interposed between them, and after the father had several times endeavoured to push him out of the way he finally drew a revolver and threatened to shoot him. The boy resolutely stood before his mother to defend her, when the exasperated father fired, the ball taking effect in the child's groin. The victim was not expected to live.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Victoria Theatre, last night, "Lucia di Lammermoor" was repeated for the last time, to a moderately good house. The piece went smoothly, and the most striking passages were applauded. To-night the "Princess of Trebizonde" will be produced.

The play of "Never Forgotten" was repeated at the Theatre Royal last evening to an excellent house, and Miss Beatrice sustained the part of Blanche Lascelles with quite as much success as on Saturday evening. Mr. Soutar again sustained the part of Tippleton Fluke, and he made it as humorous a delineation as before. Another repetition will be given this evening.

Yesterday evening a very successful concert was given at the Masonic Hall, in aid of the funds of St. Joseph's Church, Newtown. There was a tolerably large attendance. The great attraction of the evening was the performance on the pianoforte of Mdlle. Charbonnet. This talented young lady was down for three numbers on the programme, a concerto by Hummel, Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith," and Beaumann's "Concert des Anges." All of these were rendered with the brilliancy of manipulation and graceful expression for which Mdlle. Charbonnet is famous. On each occasion she was recalled, and after the second piece she favoured the audience with a lively arrangement of the favourite Irish air, "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning." The rest of the programme consisted of selections by lady and gentlemen amateurs. Miss E. A. Moon, however, can hardly be considered to come under this category, and therefore is amenable to criticism. That being so, while giving her all praise for her exquisite rendering of "Auld Robin Gray," we may ask why she omitted the beautiful recitative which precedes the ballad, and which she could have sung so well. Miss Moon also sang in "Deh Conte," with a lady amateur; and it is not too much to say that both ladies acquitted themselves in a manner that reminded old playgoers of the days when Catherine Hayes and Sara Flower delighted Sydney audiences with their rendering of the same piece. A youthful Highlander, in the costume of "the plaided clan," danced a fling and reel, to the inspiring music of the bagpipes, amidst much applause. Mr. T. P. Banks, as accompanist, rendered efficient assistance, and altogether the concert gave every satisfaction.

A sale of a great variety of fancy and useful articles was initiated at the School of Arts, St. Leonards, yesterday, for the purpose of raising a sum of money to augment a fund for enlarging St. Thomas' Church, of which the Rev. G. C. Bode is the present incumbent. The sale commenced with excellent prospects at about 3 o'clock, and trade continued brisk until after tea time, when the room was filled with people who had gone to admire or buy some of the many attractive articles on view there. All the arrangements seemed of a satisfactory and well designed character, fair value being given for money spent, and care being taken not to distress customers with too much touting. A large proportion of the goods for disposal were made by ladies of the parish and its surrounding districts, while the residue were contributions derived from a similar source. Many articles were so exceedingly pretty that it was next to impossible to pass a stall without purchasing some of them, and others were of such great utility that they readily found customers. Amongst the stallholders were Mrs. R. D. Ward, Mrs. A. M'Farland, Mrs. R. F. Pockley, Miss Martens, Mrs. Davies, Mrs. Harris, and Mrs. Bode. These were assisted in their selling operations by a number of other ladies, while the Misses Mann and the Misses Whitten respectively had under their direction the floral and the refreshment departments. On counting the takings of the evening, the results were deemed so satisfactory by the promoters of the affair that it was resolved by them to continue the sale to-day.

The ball in connection with the No. 2 Volunteer Fire Brigade is announced to take place to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, at the Masonic Hall.

The PROPOSED INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION OF 1879.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Mr. Henry S. Badgery, in his letter published to-day, observes of the above project that it "must end in honourable withdrawal or miserable failure and disgrace." Now, I hope I showed, in the long letter you were good enough to publish yesterday, that the Exhibition of 1879 could easily be made a grand success; and certainly no one, except Mr. Badgery, could look upon repudiation of an official assurance published in the Government Gazette as "honourable" to anybody in New South Wales.

At the last special meeting of the Agricultural Society, Mr. Badgery, as reported in your issue of the 11th ultimo, said, "Other colonies had announced their intention to hold exhibitions, and it is far better not to enter upon a contest with them." In other words, the "mother colony of the Australias," the oldest and richest of them, the first in the field, is to strike her flag, and dishonour her accepted invitation, because Victoria and Queensland have intimated their intention of following in her wake! This is a weak-kneed policy, very characteristic of the "Sleepy Hollow" the colony once was, but it is one which the rising spirit of our community is no longer willing to submit to. The name of Victoria is always dragged in to kill our plucky undertakings, but her example is not followed when it is favourable to them. How much longer will it be before the cattle sale yards of Melbourne are copied in Sydney, and thousands of dumb victims are rescued from the horrors of starvation before their "happy dispatch" for the nutriment of our unfortunate citizens? How much longer will it be before our railways are extended to the metropolitan end of the journey as are those of Victoria? How much longer will it be before they tap our great border districts in two places as do those of Victoria? Victorian enterprise has effected most of our progress of the past few years, by covering the vast plains of the west with flocks and herds. To Victorian enterprise we are indebted for the visit of the Australian eleven to England, although seven of the team are Sydney men. But in one solitary respect the enterprise of New South Wales has beaten that of Victoria. We have had an annual Parliament of the industries of the colony in the metropolis. We have been the first to propose an International Exhibition in Australia. It is evident that at last the old colony is coming to the front in the estimation of the people of the mother country. The tide for which we have been waiting so long is rising at last. There never was a better time to launch our project for attracting the European notice, for which the vast resources of the territory are panting. In the name of common honour, not to speak of patriotism, let us not sneak away from the solitary stroke of national enterprise of which we have been guilty. If running away from real danger is cowardly, then running away from the "International" cannot be "honourable." Mr. Badgery says (vide speech alluded to), "As our centennial is so near they had better reserve their strength until that time, and then show what they can do." The idea of putting off an exhibition for ten years, after pledging the colony to it, is only possible in this delightfully slow part of the world. But our sleepy Hollowites should recollect that, however it may be in the primeval gullies in which they love to repose, in the busy world into which our growing importance is ushering us, less than ten years may decide the fate of nations, and change the destinies of mankind. Yours, &c.,

August 17. A LOVER OF THE COUNTRY.

BREACH OF PROMISE.—An action for £2000 damages was recently brought by Miss Nellie Baptie, of Edinburgh, against James Bowden Ross, a gold mine owner at Townville, Queensland, for alleged breach of promise of marriage. From the gold-fields the defendant had kept up a correspondence with the plaintiff, and he came home with the intention of marrying her. He left his specimens of gold quartz with the object of his affections and went off with an "old love," a Miss Truefitt, an artist, whom he married. The case was set down for trial in Edinburgh by a jury, but was compromised, the plaintiff accepting £350.

ALBURY and BORDER PASTORAL and AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ALBURY, August 17.

In pursuance of an arrangement for holding the annual ploughing match each year at a different centre of farming population, the contest took place this season in a large paddock, the property of Mr. Barlow, at Jindera. The situation being a central one, the anticipations formed of a large attendance of visitors and competitors were not disappointed; the various classes were well filled up, and the contest was witnessed by a greater number of persons from Albury and other towns than I have before seen gathered together on any similar occasion. The weather was showery and the wind cold, which detracted somewhat from the enjoyment of the day's outing; but this was not the worst. Thanks to the late rains the ground was thoroughly soaked, so that the ploughing was done under anything but favourable conditions; in all parts of the field the work was very hard upon the horses, and in one or two instances the competitors had to retire before completing their allotted portions. The work of those who held out was, nevertheless, highly creditable, and superior to that shown at any previous match. The ploughing in the boys' class was specially worthy of remark, a lad named Hugh White and another named Muncey completing their respective tasks in such a way as to call forth the heartiest praise of all who were on the ground. The lads were of course ineligible to compete in the Champion Class, but in the contest for best crown and best finish, which was open to all comers, they bore away the palm from the veterans. This circumstance was subsequently referred to by one of the judges as without precedent in his experience, and there was but one opinion as to the general "all round" excellence of the boys' work. The ploughs mostly in favour appeared to be Hornsby's, though I noticed one or two Lennon's and one Ransome, the latter, however, being completed with Hornsby's fittings. The turn out of horses and harness was very respectable, some of the teams indeed being first-class. Perhaps the best matched pair on the ground were a chestnut and bay, driven by the lad White, both well-proportioned and powerful beasts, that worked as steadily as a steam-engine. For size and strength, however, the palm must be awarded to a splendid Clydesdale mare, the property of Mr. Loeman. She is by Ben Lomond, stands little short (if any) of 16½ hands—the ground was too hilly to judge nicely—with a magnificent shoulder; and, in fact, good all over. Her mate in the team, a Prince Charlie, was also a magnificent mare, but with scarcely the bone or size of the other. For the first event on the programme, the Champion match, five competitors entered. Two of these, however, retired after a short time, leaving the field to J. L. Kelton, R. Wyatt, and George Pollard. Kelton, the winner of the first prize, used the Ransome plough before mentioned; Wyatt, who took the second prize, used a Lennon, and drove a very nice even pair of horses. The work of all three men was very good, and the judges had rather a difficult task to determine whom to leave out in the cold. Six entries were received in the second-class, in which the work, though very good in several instances, was not so even all through as to make the task of judging as difficult as in the other section. W. J. Kelton secured the first award, with a Hornsby plough drawn by a rather light team, which however worked very steadily and well. The second prize fell to J. Hayward. In the boys' class there were five entries, Muncey who took first prize, and White who secured second, both using Hornsby ploughs. The general opinion of people on the ground was that White's work was the better of the two, and rumours are current to the effect that the judges made a mistake in giving in the numbers, and intended to transpose the order, making White first and Muncey second. The matter will probably be inquired into as soon as the judges can be got together, but, whatever the result, there can be no doubt that both lads deserved the highest praise. The double-furrow event did not find much favour, as for the two prizes offered only two competitors entered the field—Messrs. Green and Polack. Both were, however, awarded special prizes by the judges. The whole affair passed off very pleasantly, and had the weather been a trifle finer, and the ground a little less wet, there would have been nothing to be desired. With the one exception mentioned, the decisions of the judges were thoroughly endorsed by all present, and no hitch occurred to mar the harmony of the day's proceedings. During the progress of the match some prizes were competed for in a series of athletic sports, and in the evening a dinner was held, the chair at which was taken by Mr. George Day, M.L.A., the president of the society. The following is a list of the winners of the several events:—

First Class.—Champion Match, for all ploughmen who have won prizes before. First prize, £5, J. L. Kelton; second prize, £2, R. Wyatt.

Second Class.—First prize, £4, W. J. Kelton; second prize, £2, J. Hayward.

Third Class.—Youths under 18. First prize, £4, P. Muncey; second prize, £2, Hugh White.

Fourth Class.—Double-furrow ploughs. Special prize, E. Green; special prize, A. Polack.

Best crown, £1, H. White; best finish, £1, P. Muncey; best turn-out (plough, horse, and harness), £2, H. White.

Best pair of plough mares at the match, special prize, E. Loeman.

Best strike-out, special prize, R. Wyatt.

The judges in the first and second classes were—Messrs. Jack, Wells, and Miller; for the third and fourth classes, Messrs. D. Kelton, Cleary, and Draffin.

Conference of Ladies.—On June 27 a very large and influential congress of ladies assembled at Willis's Rooms from all parts of the United Kingdom for the purpose of discussing the best means of assisting and watching over young girls of good character, whether employed as general servants, or in any other occupation of life. Upwards of 400 ladies were present, either as lady associates or branch secretaries of the Girls' Friendly Society established under the patronage of the Archbishops of Canterbury and York in 1875. The chair was taken by Mrs. Townend, of Honington-hall, Shipston-on-Stour, and among those present, many of whom took part in the proceedings, were Lady Georgina Vernon, Lady Brabazon, representing Hampton Rural Deanery; Lady Mary Dashwood, representing Woodstock; Lady Mary Currie, representing Hingham Branch, Norfolk; Lady Mary Egerton and the Misses Egerton, representing the Rural Deanery of Chichester; the Marchioness of Hereford, representing the Alcester branch; Lady Cunliffe, representing Wrexham; Lady Florence Blunt, representing the Windsor branch of the Oxford Diocese; Lady Knightley, representing the Rural Deanery of Daventry; Lady Murdoch, representing St. George's branch, St. George's-square; Miss Katharine Gathorne Hardy, representing the Sandhurst branch of the Diocese of Canterbury; Miss Moberley, Salisbury; Miss Agatha Stacey, Birmingham; Miss Brampton, city of Winchester; and Mrs. Fox for Lady Mary Turner. Miss Oxenham, secretary, then read the annual report, which was very gratifying, and showed that the objects of the society were to inculcate strict morality among girls; to give help to young girls who are members, to establish a registry and home for sick members. The society now numbers 15,000 members throughout the country. Papers were then read on "Diocesan Central and Branch Organizations—transfer and re-transfer of members," by Miss Money; "London Business and Factory Girls," by Mrs. Papillon; Domestic Training," by the president; and "External Co-operation, with special reference to the Church of England Temperance Society," by Lady Georgina Vernon.

FREEHOLD BUILDING SITES
possessing many natural advantages, elevated, healthy, easily drained, overlooking Wentworth Park and Johnston's Bay, close to the omnibuses, Glebe Road, and within easy walking distance, by way of Pyrmont Bridge Road, of the whole of the business thoroughfares of the city.
WENTWORTH PARK, which bounds this estate on the eastern side, will, when thoroughly laid out, be the most attractive and beautiful of our
second only to the
BOTANICAL GARDENS,

The MANSION is one of those old-fashioned massively built family residences with immense accommodation, and unusually spacious lofty apartments that are rarely to be met with. Both building materials and workmanship will be found on inspection to compare very favourably with more modern structures.
Each allotment of land is pegged and numbered, so that intending purchasers, with the aid of
of the subdivision (obtainable at the Rooms), will, without the least difficulty, be able to identify the several lots.
TERMS OF PAYMENT, one-fourth cash deposit; residue, one, two, and three years, at SIX per CENT. per annum.
Sale plan of subdivision can be inspected, and lithographs obtained at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

LIFE.—A WEEKLY EXPONENT OF COMMON SENSE.
Conducted by Harold Grey ("A Pilgrim").
Price, 3d.
PROSPECTUS.
TO THE PUBLIC OF NEW SOUTH WALES.
On WEDNESDAY, September 4, will appear the first number of LIFE, an original weekly newspaper, conducted by the Pilgrim.
LIFE will be a double-demy journal of the highest class, and will contain leading articles upon politics and other topics of interest, humorous sketches, SPORTING INTELLIGENCE and TIPS; full and original reports of police cases, all written by the VERY BEST procurable talent. Mr. HAROLD GREY will devote the whole of his time and attention to the editorship of LIFE, and will commence in the first number a remarkable serial story of intense interest, entitled
WHAT WAS SHE?
The plot of this tale is of such an original description, that a gold watch will be given to any person guessing the denouement before the three last chapters have appeared. In addition to the novel, Mr. Grey will each week contribute a town sketch, dramatic criticisms, and Pilgrim pars.
LIFE is started under unusually favourable auspices. The enormous demand for the PILGRIM (which is incorporated in this newspaper) renders it possible for the publishers to guarantee advertisers a circulation of 6000 copies weekly. As an advertising medium, therefore, LIFE will stand positively unrivalled, as, not only will it be eagerly purchased by the public throughout the length and breadth of this and adjoining colonies, but it will circulate amongst those classes to whom advertisements are more particularly addressed. The greatest care has been displayed by the conductor in the selection of his staff, no expense having been spared to render LIFE a journal which for wit, humour, scholarship, and fearlessness of opinion shall be without a peer in the antipodes.
All private communications to be addressed to Mr. HAROLD GREY, 15, Queen's-place; those of a business nature to Messrs. HAMPSON and GIBSON, at the same address.
